What will Southern Bell rate hike mean locally?

The rate increase asked for by Southern Bell is needed to help pay for increased service. Belle Glade can expect next year according to Belle Glade Southern Bell Office Manager B. Carlton White.

White said the company has already planned to build the $2.6 million Electronic Switching System office locally whether or not the rate increase goes through.

But he said the company needs the rate increase to offset the costs of such improvements. The company intends to make improvements which is expected to cost $1.5 billion over the next three years, as well as compensate for galloping inflation.

The real reason behind the increase, White said, is to make the people who are getting the service pay the freight.

One example he mentioned was that while customers still pay $30 to have a phone installed, the installation costs the company more than $60 in labor alone.

Southern Bell has asked the Florida Public Service Commission to approve an increase in installation rates to $60 to help make up for the difference.

"Four out of every five installations," White said, "are made for people moving around within the same area. They aren't new telephones and right now, everyone is bearing the cost."

"The new installation rates would put the monkey on the back of the people running up the costs," he said.

White said Belle Glade has a large number of connects because there are a large number of transients in the area. He said the transients could pay only half rates but they prefer to have their phones disconnected.

White said the new facility Southern Bell will put into service in September 1975 will give the Glades "the most modern, up-to-date service offered by Southern Bell."

He said new services not now offered would include the sometimes known as push-button dialing; complete direct dialing, even for credit cards, collect calls and third phone calls and call forwarding.

Call forwarding, he explained, would allow a person, if he's expecting long-distance call and must go somewhere else, to punch into his telephone a code and the call would automatically be transferred to the other number.

Another service to be offered by the new office will be speed dialing, a system which allows a person to reach a frequently called number by dialing only two digits instead of the full seven digits.

And seven-digit dialing is coming to the Glades, White said this would be required with all the new service so after next September, it will no longer be possible to disregard the first two digits in a Belle Glade or South Bay number.

To give an indication of what Southern Bell intends to spend in Florida over the next three years, White said the $1.5 billion would buy 21 Boeing 747 Jumbo Jets or a $50,000 home for every family in a city the size of Bonyton Beach with enough left over to build another Disney World.

To pay for all this, the company is asking a total of $216 million more a year.

It will be broken down into increases in installation charges, local rates, a jump to 20 cents for coin phones and a charge on all directory assistance calls after the first three months.

White said 80 per cent of the numbers given by directory assistance operators are already listed in the telephone directory and 1,440 of the 1,800 directory assistance operators around the state would no longer be needed if all those calls were made from the directory.

Again, White said a minor-ty of people are running up the costs for everyone. He said 73 per cent of all directory assistance calls are made by only 20 per cent of the users.

Besides the extra charges, Southern Bell intends to cut overhead by using a one-minute minimum on all intrastate long distance calls instead of the present three minutes.

In Belle Glade, should the new rates be granted, residents' local rates will jump from $8.40 a month to $8.55 or $9.35 if the new coin phone rates and the directory assistance plan aren't granted.

Business charges would jump from $15.70 to $21.40 with the new pay rates and the directory assistance plan or to $22.40 without.

Telephone extensions would also be increased by 10 cents to homes and by 15 cents for businesses.

White said the company would allow the installation charge to be paid over a six-month period if the customer wishes and said this would alleviate hardship cases.

"One special thing you've got to remember," White pointed out, "is that if a person needs a new television, or furniture or a new car and if interest rates are high, he may decide he can get along for awhile without it and hope the interest rates come down."

"But a utility can't do that," he said. "If John Doe moves to Belle Glade and orders a phone, we can't tell him he's going to have to wait a year or so. We've got to put it in when he orders it."

City commission to take gamble on federal grant

The Belle Glade City Commission decided Monday night to gamble a little more than $28,000 in hopes of getting $1.8 million in federal money.

The money would be coming in what is known as Community Development Block Grants set up by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to help cities consolidate urban projects and follow the Neighborhood Development Project now under way.

The almost $2 million would be granted to the city in decreasing amounts over a five year period with the city receiving $447,000 in fiscal years 1975, '76 and '77, $298,000 in fiscal year 1978 and $149,000 in 1979.

City Manager William Mallory said Belle Glade is one of 31 cities in Florida in what is known as a "bold harmless" category which allows the city to be granted more than it normally would and assures the city of funds instead of being put into the position of waiting on "teffers" after larger cities receive theirs.

"This is because," Mallory said, "the city commission has done a number of things over the years it hasn't wanted to do but are now paying off."

Mallory said the city, to get the grant, must do what amounts to a year's paper work by February. Adley and Associates, the city's consultants who brought in the NDP, will be working with the city.

He said their fee will amount to $28,300. This is the gamble the city must take to get the grant but Al Twigg of Adley said Monday the city can immediately apply for 10 per cent of the grant for the first year to be used in planning and preparing the grant application.

The contract drawn up between the city and Adley, which was also approved Monday night subject to approval by the city attorney, states that should the city not receive the grant, it is Adley's fault, the consultants will return their fees.

Mallory said the grant program, as federal programs go, isn't restrictive and there is a long list of eligible projects the city can use the funds for. The activities include buying or leasing property which is deteriorated, appropriate for rehabilitation or preservation of historic, scenic or open spaces or to be used to provide for eligible public works or facilities or other public purposes.

Other eligible activities include neighborhood and senior citizen centers, historic properties, utilities and streets, parks and playgrounds, pedestrian malls, flood and drainage facilities, parking, solid waste disposal and fire protection facilities and special projects to remove architectural barriers to elderly and handicapped persons.

In order to qualify for the grant, the city must provide for:

Setting up a system of citizen participation.

Identification of the city's needs and the content of the community development legislation.

Specification of short and long term objectives to be achieved.

Setting up a housing assistance plan to assess current and future housing needs and establish a plan for development of assisted housing for low and moderate income families.

Formulation of the Community Development Program to identify the activities to be undertaken to meet the needs and objectives.

A relocation plan if needed. Development of an Affirmative Action Plan to assure equal opportunities in training and employment for lower income residents and in contracts to business concerns inside the area where possible.

Setting up environmental review procedures to clear projects under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Commissioner Tom Altman, who was the director of the old Neighborhood Development Project before resigning to run for city office, said the city should also hire a full-time staff.

Altman said the method of using a single director and secretary, the majority of whose time is taken up in other areas, "just won't work." He said the job is too big and said he would favor at least a full-time director and a full-time secretary who have no other responsibilities.

But no. 1 fell to no. 2

You bet we're Number One and we're on our way to the playoffs! There was no doubt in the minds of the cheerleaders and other Raider fans following the defensive spectacular they'd just seen in Pahokee as the Raider Crunch Bunch handed the Blue Devils an 11-0 defeat. The Raiders' seventh shutout of the season catapulted them into the regional playoff against either Hollywood Chaminade or Plantation on Dec. 6. Story and more pictures on pages 1B and 2B.

Even if you wanted it!!!

You can't even get it

The need for national flood insurance won't stop anyone from building a new home in Belle Glade but if they decide they want it anyway they won't be able to get it.

This was how the situation was left Monday night by the Belle Glade City Commission who learned the only areas where homes couldn't be built with federal funds were the city country club, the marina and on the right of way of Hillsboro Canal.

But the city wasn't content to leave the matter at that and decided to ask the state flood insurance agent to come and give them more information.

"This sounds like a good deal," Commissioner Tom Altman said, "and I wouldn't want the citizens of Belle Glade to miss out on a good deal if they want it."

The commission decided to take no further action following a report by City Manager William Mallory.

Mallory reported some time back he found the only flood prone areas in the city were the country club, the marina and the canal right of way but said he didn't know how this would affect those residents who might live outside the areas who would want to buy the insurance.

"We finally got a response," Mallory said, "and there is no problem unless someone wants to build in those areas. However, if you want to get flood insurance outside those areas, the city must be qualified."

"I might point out," he added, "that, according to a recent news clipping I saw, the city of Hattiesburg, Miss. was really raked over the coals by the local newspaper after they had a flood and no one had National Flood Insurance because Hattiesburg hadn't qualified for it."

Mallory said he had first heard Belle Glade might be considered flood prone, not from federal authorities but from local sayings and loan people early this year.

The Herald reported in June, some time before the city received official notice, that according to a Federal Insurance Administration list in Atlanta, Belle Glade is considered flood prone.

SR 80 again!

The Belle Glade City Commission took several moves Monday night to avoid over-long delays in the furnishing of SR80 by deciding to relocate city utility lines on city easements where possible and doing the work with city work crews.

In the efforts to keep from being the reason for delays the city has disregarded the work project numbers the DOT has assigned and has come up with its own schedule and project numbers. To begin the work, the commissioners decided to begin acquiring a city easement for the utility lines by contacting property owners along SR80 and offering 8 cents per square foot for a 10 foot wide easement from SR715 to Vinegar Bend immediately and continue to offer to property owners further north to Airport Road.

Gartner said he has conducted a sample survey among the property owners.

Bus donated

What better donation for a Gator Booster to make to the Glades Day School Gators than a Gator Bus? That's what booster Watson Ford thought so Sales Manager Ed Rongione took the opportunity during the halftime of the football game Saturday to donate the bus to the school's athletic department.

We're rich

We have a little more to be thankful for here in Belle Glade than in many other parts of the world.

How does that saying go? "I cried because I had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet." It is something similar to that if not exact.

For instance, some corn is being left in the fields around here right now because it is not worth it to harvest the crop. Yet, there are areas in the world where fresh corn would be as great a luxury as caviar would be to the average American.

In a land rich with food, Belle Glade is one of the richest. On this day in particular, it is something we can truly be thankful for.

Yet, the very subject is one of world controversy. And this editorial is being written as an introduction to the one below it written by Commissioner of Agriculture, Doyle Conner.

We will not intrude on his thoughts. Yet we would like to put forth a few of our own.

America has been blamed for just about every evil that ever came down the pipe. Yet it is the United States who always seems to come to the rescue of a friend and foe alike when they face starvation. Instead of receiving any thanks or being held in high esteem for our unselfishness the very people we help turn right around and knife us in the back the first chance they get.

It is time we stopped being so soft. We should tell the rest of the world we are not going to be able to feed its starving millions indefinitely. And we should let them know in the future we expect payment-in advance. You can be sure nobody is going to come to our rescue should we run out of food.

A sad state of affairs? Perhaps. But we should be thankful we are the ones living in such a rich agricultural country. Now-for Mr. Conner.

Farm Front

By Doyle Conner

That World Food Conference in Rome has helped to clarify the future role of American agriculture in meeting the world's growing food needs.

The conference emphasized the world's growing appetite. The world's current population of 3.8 billion is expected to double in the next 25 years, before leveling off at something less than 9 billion 75 years from now.

Just providing a subsistence diet for so many people will be a major challenge to world agriculture, but people do not want merely to subsist. They want to eat better than they have in the past, with abundant calories, high-quality protein and a pleasing variety in their diets.

Secondly, there is no doubt that American agriculture, with its marvelous productive capacity, will play an increasing role in satisfying that growing world appetite.

Most strongly emphasized at the World Food Conference, however, is that the U.S. cannot even begin to meet this long-term food need on its own. That will take a major commitment by all the countries of the world. It will take a strong commitment on the part of the developing countries themselves, where the population growth is occurring and where crop yields have the most room for improvement.

Many of the developing countries have dubious records in food policy. They have too often failed to offer their farmers adequate incentives to produce. They have too often tried to placate urban consumers with cheap food policies based on imports of food on which the exporting country subsidized the price.

In addition, these countries have put their development capital into glamour industries instead of into fertilizer plants and irrigation systems. They have failed to give a serious commitment to slowing their own birth rates.

The United States will do its share to feed the world, but the job is far too much for any one country to attempt to do by itself. We must begin now to build a strong world-wide system of food production. Much of it needs to be done in the developing countries.

For far too long the United States was the source of food for the world with huge stocks held in storage under farm price support programs. Our food surplus is now gone and there is little likelihood we will ever have them again.

So now the world must feed the world.

"NO PETS!"

'With the help of God'

Dear Glenn,

Please accept this sincere expression of appreciation to you and your staff for your coverage of the recent election, the several excellent and complimentary news articles and editorials about me, and for your pre-election endorsement.

One of the most pleasing aspects of the election was the strong support by the people of the Glades who gave me a tremendous majority vote over both of my opponents combined. Perhaps this letter will express in some small way my appreciation for their confidence and support.

It has been very rewarding to see the results of our efforts to re-kindle the fire of American spirit across the state of Florida. We found that idealism, and the will to fight to preserve a free and independent nation, still exist in the hearts of hundreds of thousands of citizens.

In a period of a few short weeks, we were able to develop one of the most dedicated, determined and patriotic campaign organizations that Florida has ever seen. Moreover, that organization, now more enthusiastic and determined than ever, is being held intact and is ready to go for the future.

Call me

Dear Sir:

Florida will only be as beautiful as you and I make it. The golden shower tree from India (Cassia Fainta) puts on a glorious show of hanging clusters of golden yellow flowers through May and June in Florida and is hardly enough to survive another year in this nation's history. But with the help of God and the continued commitment of American patriots, we will preserve the freedom and independence of the Republic and the liberties of her citizens.

Sincerely yours,

Edwin A. Menninger, D. Sc.

John Grady, M.D.

Letters of encouragement and support continue to come in by the hundreds. Some who did not vote for me for one reason or another, and many who had not heard of me prior to the election, are now volunteering for 1976. It is all most gratifying and gives me a renewed hope for the future of America.

Sincerely,

John Grady, M.D.

The "great depression" is something people my age have only read about in books or picked up from listening to our parents who lived through it.

Yet it is scary to see so many of the things prevalent in our society which were prevalent in the late 1920's, just before the world collapsed for millions of people. The times before the depression there were a lot like the times are now.

First, there was rampant inflation. If that isn't a sure sign of today-I don't know what is.

Food bills which cost $40 a year ago now cost $60 and you don't eat as well. Electric bills that cost $40 a year ago now cost $70 and you don't heat or cool as much as you used to.

More and more of peoples' money is going for necessities. This cuts out many luxury items which even a few short years ago might not have been considered such a luxury.

Most everyone is hanging onto the extra money they have-if indeed they have any. This starts a mushrooming effect which reaches right on up to the giants of the industrial world such as Ford, Chrysler, GM and others.

When big industry starts hurting, that's when the little guy starts getting his knicks as well. Only he can't afford it as well as the big boys.

Second is a tremendous amount of speculation. Now, rules have been passed to cut out the huge investments in the stock market on margin where only a small per cent of the money for a given stock has to be posted. But there are other kinds of speculation now allowed (such as in gold and silver) which is almost as great a danger.

Third, people are beginning to lose confidence not only in the U.S. Dollar, but in the government as well. When this happens a total collapse can be right on its heels.

The biggest culprit in the entire inflationary spiral, as I see it, is the federal government. Or put another way-the lack of local government-responsive, accountable local government. And perhaps this point is the biggest one for writing such a column as this.

We, right here in Belle Glade, should have some say on how the government spends our tax dollars. Yet, we don't. And they spend it on the craziest things.

The local Rotary Club used to have a funny, but sobering feature about once a month. One of its members would be put in charge of digging up some ridiculous program the U.S. had funded with out tax monies.

And the one that really struck home to me was one for $10,000 or maybe it was more so that two people could study the sex life of some kind of fruit fly in either Africa or South America-I can't remember which.

If they were spending money on something as stupid as this, just think of all the billions of dollars they were probably spending on things equally as ridiculous that we hadn't heard about.

The reason why they can get away with this? It's simple. They are too far away from their constituents, both physically and theoretically to care. Those in federal government have too much power over our money and too much of our money to begin with over which to have power.

The second reason for making city, county and state government stronger. Weaken the federal government's control over funds and return the power to use tax dollars to the people who foot the bill-people like you and me.

If this could be done America would be well on her way to solving lots of her problems.

Happy Thanksgiving

Male Chauvinist Pig? Me?

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

"Women! They're all alike give 'em a ring and it ends up right through your nose."

That's what it says for January.

For some reason (maybe it was the column I did on the aftermath) some people around here who I won't name (but their names are Gwen Johnson and Karen Hansford) seem to think I'm a Male Chauvinist Pig...and notice the capital letters.

So these un-named persons, or should I say un-entitled, goes out and buys me a 13-month Male Chauvinist Pig (again with the capitals) calendar for 1975. Cheeky broads.

Now I ask you...just because I happen to realize it's a man's world and a woman's gotta learn her place in it, as this cute cuddly pig so rightly points out in February and that there are two kinds of women, the kind you marry...and the OTHER kind, as he points out in November... I guess burning her bra was their biggest mistake but if there's anything I can't stand it's uppity women.

Just goes to show you can't tell what's gonna happen when a girl gets away from her mother's influence. It's getting to the point a man can't get any respect. Next thing you know, they'll want to smoke cigars and cuss.

Oh well, I guess that's the masculine cross of today's changing times.

But speaking of changing times, I'll take any woman, even a professed women's libber like some people I know, to change coming over the Miss Wishing Well Contest.

Miss Wishing Well, for those of you who don't know, is chosen each year from a bevy of beauties over at Palm Beach Junior College.

But this year's Miss Wishing Well may be a mister...and he/she-it-whatever-it-winds-up-being could have wiskers.

Seems a couple of men students have already filled out applications to enter the contest. Tory Buckley, the sophomore president of the PBJC student government who sports a beard, and Marc Bressler, the freshman editor of the student newspaper, and who sports a mustache, are the two who'd be beauty queens.

Or is that beauty king?

As Grandma used to say, the whole thing is amoooin' but comin'.

Both Buckley and Bressler say this is one way of having a little fun and Buckley says it might be a way of getting back at the "more ardent women's libbers."

Last I heard, neither of the two had decided what type of bathing suit to wear for their official photo but it seems to me things ought to be equal.

Either the girls involved in the contest ought to wear topless suits or the two guys ought to wear bras.

Wouldn't that be cute.

Seems like the so-called experts could get together on the advice they're giving the poor struggling consumer.

Last week a news release came across my desk dealing with cooking for the holidays.

This release, supposedly written by an expert, stressed the idea that when you thaw a turkey, for God's sake don't do it under cold running water. Seems the outside will thaw first and bacteria will creep in to give everyone a tummyache to be thankful for.

Come now, dearer news release, also supposedly written by an expert, which says that's all right. You can go ahead and run cold water over the turkey. As a matter of fact they recommend it.

So watcha gonna do now? Gonna show me that official photo ya pays your money and take your chances, that's what you're gonna do now.

Boy, did you read all that publicity the Glades got last week about the Glades Central-Pahokee brawl? And it was worth it too, as usual.

I've seen a few football games before, but nowhere, nowhen, on the high school, collegiate, professional or sand lot level, have I ever before seen a game with two safeties being scored.

Shows to go you what kind of DEE-fense is played out here on the muck.

The game was weird in another way too, as one guy on the sideline pointed out. Both teams had any number of breaks but neither the Raiders nor the Devils were able to do anything with them.

The Raider offense didn't look all that great, as another guy said, but I've got a hunch a lot of that was caused by a good Pahokee defense.

One thing about it though, if the Raider offense looked flat, I don't know what you'd say about the Blue Devil offense. The Raiders were able to put together at least one scoring drive in a game costing them almost 150 yards in penalties.

Bring on Chaminade or Plantation. The Raiders are going all the way again.

Come speaking of it, I had a little fun with Al Werneke last week when Glenn and I pointed out which team is ranked number eight in the state for 3-AAA teams.

You guessed it, if you haven't already read the paper.

So haul out the long Johns and get your plane tickets ready. It could be back to the muckhand.

"A squadron of five Navy planes, together with a rescue ship, disappears while on a routine training mission. A ship is found abandoned on the high seas with no trace of passengers or crew. A submerged ship rises from its grave below the sea."

These unexplained disappearances-and appearances-are not scenarios for a science fiction movie, but recorded events of one of the great unsolved mysteries of our time-the BERMUDA TRIANGLE: that area of the western Atlantic off the southeastern coast of the U.S. where over 100 planes and ships and 1,000 people have literally vanished into thin air.

Children's Book Week was celebrated at the Belle Glade Municipal Library November 11-15. Over 720 children enjoyed the puppet show performances of "The Terrible Post" and "The Stranger on the End of the Nose". Twenty-five shows were given to students of St. Peter's Lutheran School, Belle Glade Elementary, Gladesview Elementary, Govt. Elementary, Govt. Exceptional classes, Belle Glade Child Development Center, Wee Care, Methodist Kindergarten, a group from the Palm Beach County Mental Retardation Center, and many children who came to the afternoon puppet showing.

Special bookmarks and reading pins were distributed, and many children received either their first or a new library card. The multi-purpose room was decorated with colorful book displays, including "Hattie, the Hippo," and the main library's displays included a pirate's treasure chest filled with interesting books.

The Junior Women's Club of Belle Glade in recognition of Children's Book Week 1974, presented the library with a check for a new children's book. The book chosen was a Thanksgiving book entitled "Over the River and Through the Wood" graphically depicting an old-fashioned Thanksgiving.

Also on display this week at the Belle Glade Municipal Library will be a collection of books dealing with Thanksgiving-recipes, history, inspirational thoughts, etc.

AND, Christmas is not so very far away. The library receives a good number of interesting Christmas catalogs each year, and will have them displayed for public use. The assortment of catalogs runs from cheese and nuts to religious gifts.

Three-year old bill poses problem

Ghosts of decisions past may be coming back to haunt the South Bay City Commission on a three-year old engineering bill of more than $15,500 remains in doubt.

The bill in question was presented to the commission two weeks ago by Henry B. Steeg and Assoc., who claimed they had done the work they contracted to do in 1971 but had never been paid.

City Attorney Allen Everard brought the matter up as an example of what could be avoided by hiring a management consultant firm, which the city did Tuesday night.

Everard said he had been given unsigned copies of the contract Steeg was supposed to have drawn up with South Bay but said he hadn't been able to find the city's copy.

City Clerk Virginia Walker found the minutes of the meeting of Oct. 26, 1971 and read that a resolution was passed on a motion by then-Commissioner Howell Goodbread that Steeg be retained to survey the city's water plant for expansion.

Mrs. Walker also found the contract between the city and Steeg and showed it to Everard but Everard said he couldn't make out immediately whether the contract was to simply survey the plant or continue on with the work to the point of drawing up specifications for bids.

Two of the commissioners said they remembered earlier this year when the city received the bids and was advised by the engineer to reject all bids because they were too high.

The recommendation was made by Vernon Lynch, an engineer representing Howard, Needles, Tanner and Bergendoff, after the bids, opened last November, proved to be too high.

Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neil and then Mayor-Commissioner John Deaton said at that time the city had no way of paying for the work to be done.

Lynch appeared before the commission again in March to recommend the city reject all the bids for the work.

Commissioner Don Tanner said Tuesday night Steeg's bill had totalled approximately $23,000 but some of that had been paid.

Everard said he hadn't seen the contract drawn up for the work to be done, even though he was the city attorney at the time.

Geneticist visits

Genetics was the subject and geneticist Richard Warren made it clear with a presentation at a dinner in his honor last week at the Holiday Inn. The dinner was sponsored by the Glades March of Dimes Board of Directors and Warren discussed genetics in general and the Palm Beach County Genetics Center, which he directs, in particular. Approximately 65 persons heard his presentation.

WILL ROGERS SAID IT

Will Rogers once said, "If a man doesn't believe in life insurance, let him die once without it. That will certainly teach him a lesson." It's a humorous remark, but not quite right factually.

How odd it is that we like talk about our houses, our cars, and other earthly possessions, but we seldom hear a man talk about his life insurance program. Yet when he dies, the first question asked is, "How much life insurance did he own?" The man who dies without sufficient life insurance isn't really taught the lesson. The lesson is taught to his widow and children, and they pay a terrible price for it.

Life insurance not only pays dollars for dimes, it is an antidote for destitution, the road to realized ambitions, and the embodiment of dreams come true. If Will Rogers were alive today, he might also remark: "Insurance-any kind of insurance-is like paying for a catastrophe on the installment plan."

Why is it? ...a child knows

The following has been written by a young 14-year-old girl who wishes to remain anonymous. It is a simple message about Thanksgiving which many of us adults seem to forget. On this day to be thankful we would like you, our readers, to ponder with this little girl—"Why is it?"

The poor, they are sad. They know there will be no turkey, no dressing, no gay festivities. They also are sad for they know that Christmas is soon to come and there is no money for gifts.

And the others who are left... The middle class men and the well-to-do. They are funny because the turkey is overdone or they have to help make an extra something to take to a family in need.

Why is it so many don't appreciate the real meaning of Thanksgiving? It is supposed to be a time of thanks and gratitude, yet, so many think it is too much trouble to stop a moment and thank God for all their many blessings.

Why is it? This Thanksgiving I'm going to make a point of showing everyone how thankful I am for my blessings. I could be without a limb—without my parents or family. I could be living in a slum. Yet I'm not and I'm thankful.

Everyone has something to be thankful for but the majority don't even stop an extra moment to utter a thankful prayer or do a little extra something out of gratitude.

Why is it?

This Thanksgiving message has been brought to you by the civic minded merchants below.

Say thank you to the Lord for being so good, for always being so loving and kind. Has the Lord redeemed you? Then speak out! Tell others he has saved you from your enemies. He brought the exiles back from the farthest corners of the earth. They were wandering homeless in the desert, hungry and thirsty and faint. Lord, help! they cried, and he did! He led them straight to safety and a place to live. Oh, that these men would praise the Lord for his lovingkindness, and for all of his wonderful deeds! For he satisfies the thirsty soul and fills the hungry soul with good. Listen, if you are wise, to what I am saying. Think about the lovingkindness of the Lord!

At least two other cities in the Lake area, Clewiston and South Bay, have also been ruled flood prone. Clewiston has already been qualified for the national insurance program and South Bay recently applied for qualification.

A number of standards, including a prescribed building code and land use plan, must be met by the city before receiving qualification.

Once the city is qualified, any resident may buy flood insurance at subsidized rates.

The penalty for not having the insurance is that no federally funded loan, such as FHA, can be used to construct buildings in flood prone areas.

At least one banker in the area said in April the insurance program, and requiring the flood prone cities to qualify for it, are simply a way to help the federal government pay for insurance funds paid out to cover damages in Ohio Valley floods.

News From The Home Front

The Belle Glade Herald, November 28, 1974, 1B.

Parking pondered

A traffic study tentatively approved by the Belle Glade City Commission Monday recommended $719,000 worth of improvements but further recommendations could mean even more cost in the long run. Representatives of West Palm Beach said one recommendation included in the report was a study to find off-street parking to replace some 40 spaces to be lost when diagonal parking on Main St. is lost due to four laning. But they said an even more extensive study should be considered to eventually find space to park automobiles now occupying Southwest Ave. E. although they said such facilities are not feasible now. "I would strongly recommend a parking study," Fred L. Orcutt Jr. of Kinley-Horn said. "Removal of diagonal parking on Main St. is eventually coming and possibly 10 years from now you may need to remove all parking."

Burgess on council

The Florida Council of Independent Schools held its 20th annual convention at the Plaza in Daytona Beach, November 14th through 16th. Attending from Glades Day School were Mrs. Peggy Green, Miss Ruth Mathis and Mrs. Miriam Burgess. The theme of the convention was "Diversity, Decisions, Destiny". Mrs. Burgess has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Florida Council of Independent Schools for the past two years. At this convention she was elected to serve as a member of the Executive Board of the Florida Kindergarten Council, a statewide organization for quality pre-schools in Florida. Mrs. Burgess was also elected to serve as vice president of the F.D.I.S. for the next two years. The other officers are Bill McMillan, Headmaster of Pine Crest as President, Pete Benedict, Headmaster of St. Edwards as Secretary and Ed McCleary, Headmaster of Tampa Berkeley as Treasurer. Members of the Florida Council of Independent Schools are partners in promoting educational programs of the highest quality in the private schools of the state. They unite to assure that each member school will remain independent in character without undue political, financial or bureaucratic pressures. The F.C.I.S. serves as a valid accrediting agency, the only state organization experienced in visiting, evaluating and accrediting private schools offering instruction from preschool through grade 12.

Jingle bell time

Belle Glade electrician Andy Anderson was riding high last week as he was lifted up, up and away in the city's cherry picker to decorate city streets for the coming of some fat cat from the North. The Christmas decorations are brand new and since they arrived early, City Manager William Mallory said they should be put up early.

Christmas bazaar set for St. John's

St. John's Episcopal Church will hold its annual Parish Christmas Bazaar Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the parish house. The proceeds from this bazaar supports the Wednesday night Youth Club which meets at St. John's. The Youth Club is open to all children of the community. Mrs. Dorothy McGee is chairman of the bazaar and working with her are Quilt Chairman Mrs. Echo Painter, Food Chairman Mrs. Betty Posten, Flea Market Chairman Mrs. Virginia Williams and Luncheon Chairman Mrs. Mai Riza Zumpf. A handmade quilt has been made again this year by the ladies of the church and a drawing for the handmade quilt will be held at 4:00 p.m. the day of the bazaar. Tickets may be purchased for $1. The food sale will feature home made soups, pickles, cakes, pies, jellies and many holiday treats. The bazaar has many hand-crafted items for Christmas for young and old alike. A limited number of salad luncheon tickets will be sold. The tickets are $2.50 each and may be purchased from members of St. John's Episcopal Church.

Too late for tax break

The only chance to pay county taxes at the 4 per cent discount rate will have to wait until today, Friday or Saturday according to Palm Beach County Tax Collector Allen C. Clark.

Heart courses being pushed

A six-hour cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) course will be offered at Glades General Hospital Dec. 4 and 5 as part of a continuing program to educate the public about what to do in case of a heart attack. The course will take place from 9 a.m. to noon on the two days and open to the public. It consists basically of how to give mouth to mouth resuscitation and closed chest heart massage. Teaching the course will be Mrs. Bonnie Poston and Mrs. Patty Hood according to Mrs. Bee Wood. The course is sponsored by the Palm Beach County Heart Association and is the latest of several scheduled in the Glades. "We hope to eventually get everyone to take the course," Mrs. Wood said. She said more information could be obtained by calling Mrs. Irvin Zumpf at 996-2892 or Mrs. Frank Dooley at 996-2788.

Raiders rejoice

Yeah, man. Tuesday was something else in Ridgeland. What with whipping up on those boys in blue and getting ready to go to the state playoffs again they were raising Cain in the Raider gym. There was big David Jones turning the Bill Young Memorial Trophy over to Principal Charles McCurdy after receiving it from the Pahokee Lions Club. And while everyone was feeling good, a flipping good karate exhibition was given by men from the Riviera Dojo.

Parade shaping up

Plans for Belle Glade's Third Annual Christmas Parade set for Dec. 7 continued to gather steam last week as ad hoc parade chairman Mrs. Lynette Thompson decided to judge outsiders. The "outsiders" in question are the many youthful bicycle riders invariably attracted to parades here. Mrs. Thompson has decided that since they'll be in the parade anyway, they may as well be official. The idea will be to have local kids decorate their two-wheelers and enter the parade as official units. For those who decide to make the effort to make their bikes a little unusually decorative, there could be the reward of a $15 first place prize, a $10 second prize and a $5 third prize. Mrs. Janis Fuchs, who was in charge of getting bands for the parade, reported the Glades Central High School Marching Band will be taking part but the Maroon Machine is still the only marching band who has been scheduled to play a way for Santa. The Raiders will be marching under the direction of Willie Frymon. Mrs. Thompson said Mrs. Dolly Hand selected the parade judges again this year.

Master at work

Most Worshipful George Myers, Grand Master of the Masons of Florida shows how a trowel, the ancient tool of the masons, is used Saturday as the Grand Lodge of Florida took part in cornerstone laying ceremonies at the new Everglades Federal building on North Main Street.

They said one of the primary problems with traffic movement in Belle Glade is the unreasonable speed limits set in certain areas of town, naming Southwest Ave. F as a primary example. They said Southwest Ave. F's 15 mile per hour limit is set unreasonably low and there are too many stop signs at side streets. They recommended Ave. F be used as a feeder into Main St. instead. Godfrey and Orcutt said the four-laning of Main St. and the building of a five-lane bridge at Hillsboro Canal, as part of the general four-laning project of $850 will block off West Canal St. South. Police Chief Charles Goodlett, who attended the meeting, said the police department has considered the exit from Canal St. to Main St. unsafe for some time, citing several accidents involving police cruisers as they left the police station and entered Main. Goodlett said a possible solution, which would provide a quick exit for police answering calls would be to build a driveway connecting Canal St. South with West Ave. A. Another change expected to be brought about by the four-laning of Main St. and 80 would be elimination of the "wall effect" on North Main St. since Godfrey and Orcutt said the DOT plans to lower Main until it is closer to the level of the side streets.

"On to the playoffs!"

After a year of rebuilding (1973-74) Coach Al Werneke's Raiders have made it to the top again and are definitely in the playoffs, after shutting out the Pahokee Blue Devils 11-0. Glades Central avenged last year's homecoming loss to the Devils by going out in front of Pahokee by seven points with less than two minutes to go in the first half. They added four more points to their score in the second half by setting up two safeties—which must be quite a record. How often do you see one safety in a game, much less two?

It first didn't look as if there was going to be that much of a turnout for the traditional game between the arch rivals, but as time wore on, the stands on the Raiders' side became jam-packed while Pahokee's side was rapidly filling up.

Of course Belle Glade did have a few pranksters who decided it was better to yell for the Blue Devils from Glades Central's side of the field. They were about all you could hear at first, but as the game continued and Glades Central put some points up there on the scoreboard, they sort of clammed-not entirely, but not half as loud as that, which I was glad of.

Except for a couple of cheap shots and some loud arguing among the players, it was a pretty clean-cut game. I was having problems though, with a lot of plays coming over to the sidelines.

Now I'm not dumb—I like to keep my little "eye" away from the sideline just in case a player is running a little too hard and can't stop in time. But once I was standing behind some people and I saw the players heading our way. Instinctively I backed up but the only trouble was, those people in front of me were backing up faster than I was. They backed me into the 30-yard line marker and I tripped over it—barely managing to save myself from embarrassment by falling flat down on it.

I could just see myself sprawled on the ground with hundreds of eyes on me. The "only" other time I was nearly knocked down like that was last year when I covered my first football game alone, with a 35-mm camera and a foot-long "zoom" lens attached to it.

Ever used a zoom lens? Let me tell you, it's a lot different watching a game from behind that. You can make a person look 50 feet away when he's actually only five. (So maybe I exaggerate a little.)

Anyway, I had my zoom lens zoomed in on these players. They looked pretty far away and then they began getting closer and closer—but I hadn't realized how close until I heard a whoosh and they completely filled up my camera view. I jumped out of the way just in time—a second later and I would've had four 300-pound giants on top of me (they seemed like it anyway).

Talking about scared!

Oh well, congratulations to the Raiders, and I really hope they make it all the way to State. Then maybe the Chamber of Commerce can make a brand new bigger sign which says "Glades Central Raiders, 3A State Champions 1971-72, 1972-73, and 1974-75."

Raiders douse Devils' fire

The Glades Central Raiders looked up their berth in the state playoffs Friday with a bitterly fought defensive battle with traditional rival Pahokee in a defensive brawl highlighted by two safeties and several injuries.

The 11-0 victory also helped assuage sour memories left over from last year's 12-7 homecoming debacle handed the Raiders by the Blue Devils.

The rock hard Raider defense, led by the "Too Tall" David Jones, the $8 Million Man, was the decisive factor in the annual brawl and they were backed up by the punting of Dickey Sweet.

Jones and Cornelius Brown dropped a Pahokee player in his own end zone following a Sweet punt to the Blue Devil two in the third quarter for the first safety and Jones blocked a punt in the final period for the second defensive score of the game.

The Crunch Bunch, as the Raider defensive unit named itself earlier this year, went for the Blue Devil's jugular throughout the game, sticking the Pahokee offense for minus 65 yards in rushing.

The only successful offensive drive of the night came on the arm of Raider quarterback Johnny Rutledge, Jr. Rutledge capped the second quarter 65-yard drive with a six-yard pass to split end Michael Pringle in the Devils' end zone for the game's sole touchdown.

The drive got under way with a reverse Anthony Burger ran against a pretty Pahokee defense for 11 yards and the Raiders hammered away with an end around pass Hodall

LONG WALKIN' SWEET TALKIN' ALEXANDER BROWN GOES ...high in the air to catch 15 yarder to set up second quarter touchdown.

Collie made to Alexander Brown for 15 yards to the Pahokee 26 and a Rutledge to Collie 18-yarder.

Rutledge drilled the ball to Pringle two plays later and the Raiders went out on top. David Kinlaw converted and the Raiders went into the half leading 7-0.

That single drive accounted for the major part of the offensive success by either team during the game and the second half was strictly defense.

Although both teams had several chances to score at various times during the game, neither the Raiders nor the Devils were able to capitalize on their breaks. Following the second safety, the Blue Devils kicked from their own 20 and senior quarterback Rigo Ruiz was given his first chance to play in four games.

After a series of plays taking the ball deep into Pahokee territory, a Ruiz pass was intercepted and raced back to the Raider 18 yard line before the Devil was knocked out of bounds by Sweet.

That was Pahokee's final threat but the Crunch Bunch rose to the test and sacked the Pahokee quarterback twice before taking over on downs on their own 32 yard stripe.

While the victory earned the Raiders the right to play either Plantation or Hollywood Chamblaine in the regional playoff on Dec. 6, it proved costly in injuries.

Rigo Ruiz, who led the Raider offense in the first six games of the season, finished his career for the Raiders when he re-injured his knee on the last play of the game.

Also out for the rest of the year is running back Norman Smith who made a spot for himself following Alexander Brown's leg injury earlier this year.

The District 8AAA crown will be decided Friday when Plantation meets South Plantation in an inter-city clash. If Plantation should lose the Raiders will meet Chamblaine on Dec. 6 in Hollywood. Otherwise, the Raiders will face Plantation.

Coach Al Werneke said members of the Raider defense played their finest game of the year against Pahokee, holding the Devils to minus 65 yards rushing and only 91 yards passing.

Pahokee could only hammer out two first downs against the Crunch Bunch, who were led by Jones with eight tackles, including both safeties.

Jones was selected Defensive Lineman of the Week for his final regular season performance for the Raiders. He was followed closely by Cornelius Brown, Hudall Collie, and Calvin Willis, who had five tackles each. David Kinlaw, Bruce Rimes, Ernest Jackson, and Charles Small had four tackles each.

David Kinlaw, Bruce Rimes, and Anthony Parrish had one interception each. The secondary of Jazzell Smetton, Bernard Hammond, T.J. Salter and Willie Wright played a strong game, knocking down a total of 10 passes. The usually high scoring Raider offense was unable to get untracked against the tough Blue Devil defense. They were limited to 98 yards on the ground and 75 yards passing.

Norman Smith led the Raiders with 94 yards in six carries while Howard Moses gained 19 yards in five carries. Anthony "The Flee" Burger was limited to 13 yards in five carries and Nathaniel Howard gained 15 yards in four carries.

Johnny Rutledge hit on five of 15 passes good for 48 yards but he hit the big one to Michael Pringle for the only touchdown of the game.

Rigo Ruiz hit on one of two passes good for 10 yards and tight end Hudall Collie hit one of three passes for 17 yards.

As a result of his touchdown catch, Pringle was selected Offensive Player of the Week. The Starter of the Week award went to defensive tackle Ernest Jackson for his hit of Pahokee's quarterback Banks in the second quarter.

So effective was the Raider pass rush that they sacked the Pahokee quarterback eight times and dropped the Pahokee running backs four times for a total of 98 yards in losses during the game.

MICHAEL PRINGLE ...caught only TD pass.

J.V. Raiders end season

The Glades Central Junior Varsity football team rolled to its third consecutive season without a defeat this year with a potent offense which allowed a total of 22 points, with six of those coming on a kickoff return.

Coach Willie McDonald's Glades Central Junior Varsity football team rolled to its third undefeated season this year with an aggregate score of 141-22.

The only game to mar the Junior Raiders' season was a 0-0 tie against the Fort Pierce Central Junior Varsity Cobras during the first game of the year, giving the Raiders a seasonal record of 6-0-1.

William Johnson, the Junior Raider fullback led the scoring efforts for the year with a total of 12 touchdowns, peaking with four touchdowns to lead the team to a 31-0 rout of Fort Pierce in a rematch later in the year.

Other high scorers in the seven-game season were tailback Kenny Henderson with four touchdowns and wide receiver Edward Smith with three TD's. One touchdown each were scored by Pete McGriff, Eli Martin and Tim Pugham.

Joe Zawadzki kicked the extra points.

McDonald was assisted by line coach Wallace Chester and defensive coach Dave Campbell.

The offensive team was made up by ends Anthony Seymour, Bernard Humphrey and Norris Smith, tackles Barry Carrigan and James Daniels, guards Willie Bryant and Willie Haulstead, center Raul Baez, quarterback Pete McGriff, wide receiver Edward Smith, tailbacks Kenny Henderson and Eli Martin and fullback William Johnson.

The defense, working primarily out of a 3-5 motion and a 6-1 gap, were defensive ends Larry Willis and Anthony Seymour, tackles Willie Haulstead and Kenny Fitzpatrick, nose guards Raul Baez and Tony Otis, linebackers Phillip Smalson and Alfred Denard, monsterman Albert Jenkins and Arthur Jones, cornerbacks David Bryant and Sylvester James and safety Willie King. The team for the year tied Fort Pierce 0-0, whipped Suncoast 32-0, defeated Pahokee 18-8, clobbered Twin Lakes 39-8, won a game against Martin County when the Tiger Cubs forfeited, revenge themselves by trouncing Fort Pierce 31-0 and blasted Pahokee 21-6.

THIS WAS ONLY SOME OF THE ACTION SEEN THIS YEAR BY JV ...Raider team that racked up a total 141 points to opponents' 22 in 1974.

Tampa Berkeley defeats Gators

Capitalizing on many Glades Day mistakes, Tampa Berkeley defeated the Gators 15-6 at Saturday's game.

Berkeley scored first when they recovered a Gator fumble on the opponents 42 yard line. A 58-yard run by David Linaas placed the ball on the Gator 3 yard line. Rick Stang took the ball over for the score. A two point conversion by Mark Wilson made the score 6-0.

The Gators came right back when Danny Davis recovered a fumble punt on Berkeley's three yard line. Bill Thompson scored on a drive play off left guard. A pass attempt for the conversion from Jorge Echave to Brandon Markham failed. The first half ended with the visitors leading 8-6.

The second half saw the Gators give up many scoring opportunities due to interceptions and fumbles. Berkeley utilizing an interception scored the final touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The touchdown drive began on the Gators 45 yard line and ended with a four yard run by David Linaas. Again, the two point conversion was good.

Although the Gators ended the 1974 football season with a 3 and 7 record, Coach Magnusson feels the team has improved a great deal over the year. He also looks forward to a much improved team next year due to the loss of only four starting Seniors from this year's team.

The defensive team has played outstanding football this year, yielding an average of 14 points per game.

Coach Magnusson cited Jeff Royal, Bill Thompson, Julio Sanchez, Mitch Crisman and Charles Mathews for their outstanding play during the entire season.

Thanksgiving

The big, plump turkey that sits on so many tables on Thanksgiving is symbolic of all the things that we, in the United States, should be grateful for. It is a symbol of the abundance of our nation and the great productivity of our land.

The fact that so many will have one of these large birds on their table indicates that most of our citizens have the means to afford this symbol of prosperity.

All the things for which this traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner is symbolic are the very things for which we should be grateful.

If, however, a few of us are so eager to slice into the bird, that we forget the advantages we derive that enable us to celebrate Thanksgiving, it can be unfortunate because this attitude shows the pleasure to be derived from all the things for which we are thankful.

The Parson Pontificates

Here it is Thanksgiving season, and we have to think up some things to be thankful for. It isn't easy, what with inflation eating up our purchasing power, food prices soaring like a bazooka in a headwind, the energy crisis putting a crimp in our travel plans, the political mess eroding our confidence in government, drug abuse and family problems corrupting our society, violent crime invading our streets and homes, and general world conditions spreading clouds of pessimism like a brewing hurricane. Is there any reason to be thankful? Not if we dwell on these things. But, on the other hand, none of us is starving. And we have fairly good living conditions. We have families and friends who love us, and plenty of opportunity to serve our nation, our fellowman, and our God. If these are not sufficient to make us thankful, we should consider the blessing of having forgiveness of our sins, the hope of eternal life, and the assurance of God's love and presence. Or have we had time to accept these blessings? [Read what Paul wrote from prison: Philippians 4:4-15]

I run eight different engines.
NAPA covers them all.

On my place, we run engines from eight different manufacturers. And, it's nice to know that when one stops running, my local NAPA Jobber has the parts I need to get it going again. Chances are he has in stock what I need for all of them, not to mention a big variety of tools, paints and farm/ranch supplies. But, if he's ever out, he gets what I need overnight. That's one service that's hard to find anywhere else.

Your NAPA Jobber is a local independent businessman. Get to know him. When you run a lot of machinery, you can't afford to run around looking for parts.

Thomas Paine arrives in Philadelphia

By Jerome Turk and Edu. Walsh

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29, 1774—A half-dead 37-year-old Englishman arrived at wharfside today aboard the London Packet. Before this impoverished visitor is strong enough to lift a cup of tea to his lips again, there may be none to brew. The non-importation sanctions adopted by the first continental Congress start day after tomorrow. Tea is included among them.

Turk and I had come to Philadelphia's docks to observe the last minute influx of goods.

Slim & dark, blue eyes glittering in his feverish face, the Englishman named Thomas Paine was carried, with our bumbling help, to a waiting chaise at the order of Philadelphia's Dr. Kearsley. Captain Cooke, master of the London Packet, told us Paine was victimized by the fever that raged among 120 indentured servants, killing five of them. Proof of how much a word from Benjamin Franklin can do for a total stranger in Philadelphia is the quick, professional care provided for this newswoman.

Paine is not indentured. Two months ago Franklin sent a letter on Paine's behalf to Richard Bache, his son-in-law here. He requested that Bache try to secure a job for Paine "as a clerk, or assistant tutor in a school, or assistant surveyor."

Trained in the corset-making trade by his Quaker father, Paine (whose flourish with the pen added an "e" to his given name of "Pain") hasn't made an even lukewarm success of this or any other endeavor.

After the death of his first wife, Paine served as an officer of the English Excise Board. It was his job to collect taxes, chiefly on beer, wine & other spirits. But in 1765 Paine was discharged for negligence.

"He told me he tried corset-making again & teaching, too, to support himself," Captain Cooke recalled. "But he wasn't too proud to beg for reinstatement by the Excise Board.

They finally relented."

Three years ago, Paine married a Quaker's daughter, Elizabeth Olive. He helped tend her family's tobacco & grocery shop at Lewes in Sussex & he prospered at neither job.

Two years ago, disgruntled excise officers complaining of low pay asked Paine to present their grievances to Parliament. He wrote an inspired pamphlet entitled The Case of the Officers of Excise. Parliament ignored his plea. Bad came to worse as the family shop foundered, along with his marriage. In April of this year the Board of Excise discharged Paine, who fled his creditors & his wife. Then he sought Benjamin Franklin's help in London.

"Can't see what your Dr. Franklin could want him in Philadelphia for," the bluff Captain Cooke speculated, scratching his grizzled chin. "Seems to me England is well rid of 'is kind."

My colleague Turk pointed out that England may have purposely shipped him out before the colonies would refuse to accept him as an import. We all laughed heartily.

Non-importation, however, is no laughing matter. "Any goods, wares or merchandise whatsoever," will not be imported from Great Britain or Ireland, according to the language of the now-adjourning Congress. That includes not only tea, but also molasses, coffee, wines, furniture, clothing—even slaves.

Enforcement is in the hands of the Continental Association, a loose affiliation among the colonies that has at its core town, city & county committees. That means America is in for a period of austerity & no doubt, turbulence.

Wouldn't it be ironic if the sick, bedraggled stranger, a last-minute "import" from England, should make a name for himself in these trying times?

LP Gas saves you money

LP Gas will cook almost 2 meals with the same amount of original energy it takes to cook 1 meal electrically.

LP Gas will dry about three and one-third loads of clothes with the same amount of original energy it takes to dry 1 load electrically.

LP Gas will heat almost two and one-half gallons of water with the same amount of original energy it takes to heat 1 gallon electrically.

LP Gas comes to you straight-no inefficient conversion to another type of fuel. It's pure energy, in its cleanest, most efficient form. With gas 93 percent of the original energy comes into your home, ready for direct use in your gas appliances. So you can see, very little is used in delivery to you. On the other hand, around here, most electric power is generated from burning coal, and some oil and natural gas. And only about 28 percent of the original energy is delivered to you as electricity. Obviously, most of the original energy is lost when converted to electrical power. See chart below.

MACHINE CHEWS UP WATER HYACINTHS IN RECENT TEST
...could prove useful in local waters infested with the troublesome weed

Machine to combat local enemy

The controversial White Amur fish, which may soon be released in Florida lakes, has a big appetite for submerged aquatic vegetation, and this paddle-wheel harvester can gobble up floating vegetation such as the water hyacinth.

The machine, developed by the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) at the University of Florida, Gainesville, was successfully tested this week at Lake Alice on the UF campus.

The harvester was built with the help of $12,000 grant from the Florida Department of Natural Resources, Tallahassee to demonstrate the feasibility of removing large quantities of floating vegetation from lakes, canals, and other waterways.

storage bin. Bagnall says the machine could serve as a prototype for much larger floating harvesters.

A related research project by animal scientists will determine if the harvested water weeds can be used as a component in cattle feed, Bagnall explained.

The machine's builder, Dr. Larry O. Bagnall, associate professor with IFAS, says the device "employs a rotary crimping bar to collect floating vegetation and transfer it to a

The floating water hyacinth, with its pretty purple flowers, now infests more than 100,000 acres of Florida waterways and it is considered one of the most troublesome aquatic weeds.

Works of art

One of the sights greeting the estimated 1,000 spectators who visited the Glades Correctional Institution's annual Arts and Crafts Show
Saturday at the Glades Plaza Shopping Center was this inmate playing his hobby of leatherworking. This was the first time the Arts and Crafts Show has been held outside the grounds of GCI and Community Services Committee Coordinator Mrs. Nataleh Nach-man said the show was a success. Another treat in store for the spectators was the GCI band, shown performing in the background.
Handbags like those below were best sellers.
